LETTER FROM WAC EXECUTIVE PANEL

Dear Faculty Advisors and Students,

We are pleased to invite your school to the 32nd annual World Affairs Conference (WAC), to be held at Upper Canada College on February 2nd and 3rd, 2015. Our theme this year is “Threats to Humanity”, a deliberation of some of the impactful issues that the human race will contend with in the near future. The conference typically welcomes over 800 student delegates from across North America. We encourage you to learn more about WAC 2015 by reviewing this information package and visiting our website at www.world.ac.

WAC begins on the evening of 2nd with the Lionel Gelber Keynote Address, our most important event. Past keynote speakers have included: Marc Garneau, David Frum, Ralph Nader, Stephen Lewis, Dr. Izzeldin Abuelaish, Dr. Jeremy Sachs, John Stackhouse and Dambisa Moyo. The following morning will start with a panel on the Global Climate Crisis, after which students will attend three plenaries lead by a variety of expert speakers.

Our aim is to expose students to a range of international issues, thereby expanding their horizons aiding them in their development into global citizens. We believe it is uniquely valuable to be exposed to ideas that do not exist solely within national boundaries; WAC provides this exposure. Through a combination of expert discourse and intriguing dialogue, WAC affords each student the chance to develop his or her own informed opinions.

This brochure contains conference information and instructions for registration. Please be sure to register your students as soon as possible. We look forward to hosting you at this year’s conference. Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact our registration correspondent at peter.coxford@ucc.on.ca.

Kind Regards,

WHY WAC?

OUR EXEMPLARY SPEAKERS

Our speakers travel from across North America - and this year, from Europe - to attend WAC. They are experts in their fields and experienced presenters. At no other high school conference will you find such a congregation of talent.

OUR HISTORY

The World Affairs Conference is an institution among student-run conferences. Since its founding in 1983, WAC has hosted speakers of a top caliber, such as Ralph Nader, Marc Garneau, Michael Ignatieff, Jeffrey Sachs, David Frum and Bob Rae, as well as numerous others.

THE CURRENT ISSUES

Our topics this year reflect some of the most current subjects of debate in global forums. They are broad in their scope and enormous in their importance.

THE INSPIRATION

The opportunity to be exposed to ideas that do not exist solely within national boundaries is an incredibly valuable one. This is what WAC provides.

COMMUNICATION WITH OTHERS

WAC routinely attracts up to a thousand like-minded students. Delegates will have the opportunity to meet people from across Canada that share their interest in global affairs.

SYED SOHARWARDY

TERRORISM

Syed is the founder of the “Islamic Supreme Council of Canada” (ISCC) and the group “Muslims against Terrorism” (MAT). The ISCC was founded to be the leading organisation in Canada to help citizens understand the teachings of Islam and issues of the Muslim community, as well as to provide guidance on the issues related to Muslims. MAT is dedicated to providing Muslim perspectives on issues related to terrorism. Syed is a dedicated activist towards keeping the Muslim community as well all Canadians safe from terrorists. He believes that early intervention is needed to stop the threat of terrorism in our society, and that the Canadian government has resources to help the cause. Further, Soharwardy believes in peace between all Canadians no matter their culture or religion, and more importantly peace between all countries around the world.

FEATURED SPEAKERS

DR. ONIL BHATTACHARYYA

GLOBAL HEALTH

Dr. Bhattacharyya completed his B.Sc. (in biochemistry) at McGill, his MD at the University of Montreal and his PhD (in health policy, management and evaluation) at the University of Toronto. He's been part of the DFCM since 2006 where he is an assistant professor in The Department of Family and Community and in Health Policy, Management and Evaluation. He is also a clinician scientist at St. Michael's hospital. To improve methods in developed communities, he has been part of several projects such as Hacking Health in Toronto where he was challenged to improve cares for more complex patients. Dr. Bhattacharyya has also been part of the District Evaluation Study on Health where he was co-principal. DESH's goal is to replicate the methods found in their India's research in other countries to then improve their health cares.

PLENARIES

OPENING PANEL

THE CLIMATE CRISIS

SYNOPSIS:

We could think of few better choices for our morning panel than this topic which practically needs no introduction. According to a global consensus of scientists, the Greenhouse Gases in Earth's atmosphere have reached such dangerous levels as to spell disaster for humanity. Due to resultant changes in the climate, we can expect rising sea levels, greatly increases incidence of extreme weather, more extreme temperature and, in general, significant damage to the world economy. Our panel of speakers will examine the issue, with a particular eye to policy solutions. On one side, we have Dr. Gordon Faulks, a climate change denier infamous for his outspoken views against the general scientific consensus. In the middle, we have Senator Grant Mitchell, a senior member of the Liberal Party of Canada and active environmentalist in parliament. Senator Mitchell has a particular interest in the economics of the situation. On the left side, we have MP Bruce Hyer, the first member of the Green Party of Canada to be elected to parliament.

SPEAKERS

Bruce Hyre; Senator Grant Mitchell; Dr. Gordon Faulks

CLOSING PANEL

THREATS TO HUMANITY

SYNOPSIS:

Each year we hold a closing panel to discuss our theme for the conference. At the moment, we have not confirmed the speaker. However, we are considering a number of excellent choices. Past speakers for the closing panel include Craig Kielburger and David Miller.

DEMOCRACY FALTERING: AN OUTDATED FRAMEWORK?

SYNOPSIS:

Democracy has long been held as the zenith of political development. However, as a system, it is at a precarious point in its history. Western democracies - including Ontario and Quebec - have incurred budget deficits of monumental size as they attempt to meet their citizens demands. Simultaneously, its ineffectiveness in the Arab Spring uprisings has cast doubt over its viability in certain regions. Some have suggested that society would be better off if we chose to give up some of our personal freedoms and installed a system that was more technocratic than the current style. Therefore, this plenary aims to examine the future of democracy; can we afford to keep the status quo?

THE CRITICAL NECESSITIES: GLOBAL FOOD AND WATER SECURITY

SYNOPSIS:

Humanity is suffering from a resource management crisis, and at the centre of this issue is the question of the continuing availability of food and potable water. This plenary will feature one speaker discussing food security, and one discussing water scarcity. Our approach to these issues will be pivotal in determining the future course of global events as nations come face to face with their decreasing capacity to provide basic necessities.

SPEAKER

Professor Hugo Melgar-Quiñonez

PEACE AND SPORTS

SYNOPSIS:

A plenary focusing on International Sporting Events may seem incongruous with the theme; this discussion is our wildcard this year. At least one large-scale sporting event occur almost every year, namely the Olympics, FIFA and the PanAm Games. On one hand, these events bring people of all nationalities together to share a common passion, thereby improving global interactions. On the other hand, they may be a poor vessel for peace. Empirically, such events have been associated with serious economic impacts on involved countries and a host of other issues; recently, in Sochi and Rio de Janeiro for instance, these issues have included allegations of widespread human rights violations and corruption.

SPEAKER

Alan R. Sanderson

FUTURE TERRORISM

SYNOPSIS:

Since the events of September 11, 2001, Terrorism has been at the forefront of global issues. With the effective end of the US War on Terror and the withdrawal of Allied group troops in the Middle East, we have transitioned into a new stage. The nature of modern-day terrorism is an uncertain, intricate and ever-evolving threat. Equally uncertain is the extent of the measures necessary to combat it. From where will future terrorism originate? And need we sacrifice civil liberties to protect ourselves?

SPEAKER

Syed Soharwardy

DIAGNOSING GLOBAL HEALTH

SYNOPSIS:

Our ability to improve global health through the eradication of diseases and the betterment of living conditions is among the single greatest collective human causes. The World Health Organization and similar bodies are effectively responsible for keeping the course. They are symbolic of a large-scale, international approach to solving health problems, in contrast with domestic, community-based initiatives. This plenary aims to take a snapshot of the efficacy of our approach by presenting two sides of the issue: one in favour of internationalism, and one that is skeptical of current paradigms.

SPEAKER

Dr. Onil Bhattacharyya

THE KASHMIR DISPUTE

SYNOPSIS:

As British Colonialism came to a close in India, two countries stood where there was once one. Pakistan seceded with the intention of establishing a nation for India's Muslim. With that secession, the ownership of Kashmir, a border region, became the subject of contentious dispute that continues to destabilize the two nations. In short, the dispute in Kashmir has massive global implications. Both India and Pakistan stand ready to destroy each other with nuclear force if they cannot reach a compromise. A nuclear outcome in Kashmir has the potential to cause the extinction of the human race.

Dear Faculty Adviser,

An entirely student-organized and student-run event, the World Affairs Conference brings together young people from across North America and provides them with a unique opportunity to listen and talk to experts linked to a particular current affairs topic. Equally important, it allows delegates to exchange views with those who may have backgrounds quite different from their own.

As you can imagine, the challenges of defining a topic, booking appropriate speakers, and organizing, feeding, entertaining, and accommodating approximately eight hundred delegates are enormous. Each year, those who attend compliment the professional approach of the student organizers and their commitment to ensuring the best possible experience for their guests. The organizing committee tries to anticipate the needs of our delegates: if there are oversights, please bring them to our attention. We are always open to constructive suggestions.

Students and faculty who attend the conference contribute significantly to its success through their enthusiasm, cooperation, and—at times—their patience and understanding. There are certain things that we do request of teachers who bring students to WAC:

- Please register as quickly as possible, providing full information and payment. We realize the timing of the conference presents a challenge for semestered schools and we apologize for the inconvenience.
- The student organizers collect a range of research articles relating to the conference topic; these materials are available on our website (www.world.ac). The more fully prepared delegates are before the conference, the more they gain from it.
- The faculty advisers for WAC are delighted to assist you and your students in any way possible. Our primary focus is to support the students running the conference—as a result, we are unable to supervise delegates closely. This is the responsibility of the faculty advisers who accompany them.
- Please review with your students the expectations you (and we) have of them. Those staying in the hotel should display courtesy for other guests. During the actual conference, it is important for students to follow instructions, to be punctual, minimize the use of electronics, and to remember that talking and unnecessary movement are very distracting for speakers and other delegates. In addition, please ensure that your students follow a business-casual dress code.

Should you have any questions about the conference, or, as the conference draws nearer, any concerns about the registration process or other logistics, please do not hesitate to contact one of us by phone or email. Thank you for your consideration,
